

Clownfish Marketing

Description:

Clownfish is a brand and communications consultancy committed to business evolution through social, environmental and economically responsible implementation. We combine creative talent with extensive experience to embed sustainability into business processes, relations and systems and can communicate it effectively both internally and to your consumers. Clownfish applies modular business evolution to build more environmentally and socially responsible brands, providing everything from insight and training to transformation and communication. Having specialised in the area of sustainable marketing long before it was on most brands' radars, Clownfish has the long-standing specialist experience that a conventional branding or marketing consultancy cannot provide. Clownfish's expertise includes partnerships with lobby groups, NGOs, governments, the media and other brands. We deliver strategies, programs, ideas and policies that boost businesses and join the dots between planet, people and
